Onboard the GPC Headquarters there lies a humble coffee shop on the deserted part of the landship. Inside this coffee shop is two small rooms, the smallest of the two is the entrance to The Aspirants base.

“Welcome back operatives Angela vas Draconia and Molina vas Leona”

“Third floor computer, let’s go!” The voice is sharp and quick.

“Angela! you need to calm down, we need to focus.” A softer yet assertive voice soon followed. “Let us run through your plan again.”

“My plan will work this time Molina.” she interrupted quickly, “we don’t have to go through it for the 50th time.” She sighs deeply, her head sinks down. “We are going in and ending this. I am exhausted.” Her voice has become deep and slow.

“By cutting our only piece of golden steel in half?” Molina interrupts sternly looking up at Angela trying to make eye contact. “I don’t think we should go through with this, it’s too risky.”

“Our guys have confirmed that golden steel is the key to stopping this.” Angela bends down and makes sharp eye contact with a pair of Azure blue eyes. “What is so risky?”

Molina fixes her eyes upon the Smokey grey eyes directly in front of her. “Who exactly are our guys, what if they are lying Angie?” Molina removes Angelas hands from her shoulders and faces her back towards Angela. “We should always triple check on anything before we do it, please we don’t want to go through with this.”

“I know what you are saying but we don’t have that kind of time.” She briefly pauses stands up and moves in front of Molina. “Besides we are The Aspirants, we got this!”

The elevator halts smoothly and the pair step out into a huge empty room with a humongous screen plastered on the wall, the heading “The Storm” is situated at the top of the screen in front them. They are now walking swiftly towards the experimentation room on the right of the screen.

“You gotta learn one thing, sometimes you just gotta go with your gut.” Angela looks forward her eyes fixed upon the experimentation room on the far side.

“Is that how you people live on Draconia.” Molina quickly interjects.

Angela’s stops cold in her tracks, looks down at Molina. “No shorty, we Draconians love fighting but that does not mean we are impulsive.” Angela beaming with confidence causes Molina to let out a small chuckle.

“Are you hearing yourself.” She lets out an involuntary smile. “Don’t forget that disaster in the Victorian bar”.

“You mean you stopping me from killing all of them”. Angela puts her hands on her hips with a grin on her face.

“No, I mean how I saved you from getting us killed.” Molina looks at Angela in disbelief.

“I had it under control, I know you are new to this business.” She bends down to embrace Molina. “But you have to let your hair down once in a while.” She whispers into her ear.

“Okay! Let us try, ill trust you with this operation, for the first and last time.” Molina wraps her arms around Angela. “Angie listen, you have to stop being so reckless all the time it will catch up to you.”

Angela’s eyes brighten as she jumps up, “I must be dreaming! my short apprentice trusts me for once.” Angela continues walking. “Molina I am not reckless you are just overly paranoid.”

Molina looks at Angela with disbelief once again and sighs. “If you say so, I’m not in the mood for this again.”

Angela blankly replies “Hey! You started it.”

The pair arrive at the door to the experimentation room, both stiffen their shoulders, their fists are clenched, Angela glances over at the screen to the left. “Dark V_Rock you are done!” She holds a fist towards the screen as she says. “Computer begin experiment number 107, it’s time to end this.”

The door opens, Angela and Molina slowly enter the room. They both stand at opposite ends of the room with a table between them. On the table a jar of DarkV_Rock is placed in the middle with 2 golden steel bars that lay on the other side.

“I see you have already cut the piece in 2” Molina sighs “You are not supposed to do anything on your own, you are going against regulation.”

“I am confident in this, it will work.” She looks toward the ceiling of the room and speaks softly, “If this for some reason goes south... then you can punish me, Okay?”

Molina’s face turns pale and stutters, “O-okay, never mind that, deep breaths and focus.” She pauses for a few seconds taking in a lot of air. “Computer begin experiment 107, secondary authorisation granted.”

A glass cage emerges out of the ceiling and surrounds the table with the duo inside, 2 mechanical arms emerge out of the ceiling. Two joysticks appear on Angelas side of the table. One arm encloses the jar with the other lifting a piece of golden steel, inserting it within the jar.

“I hope you are right Angie.” Molina is tense and stiff looking over at Angela who is unresponsive...

Nothing happens, nothing has changed... No reaction? explosion? Conversion?

Nothing?

The experiments concludes and everything is set back to how the room was when they entered.

“Damnit Angela, I told you it wouldn’t work!” Her frustrated tone lets out an immediate reaction from Angela.

“Urgh! Quit your whining for once Molina.” She blurted: “Your incessant paranoia is really starting to get to me.” Angela slams her hands on the table with her head sunk between her shoulders.

“Then tell me who told you about this.” Molina’s starts to pick up her pace. “Who lied to you? Why did you believe them? Angie, I told you that we need to be sure. Why....”

Angela suddenly breaks down. Collapsing to the floor and curling into a ball of sorrow.

“I don’t know anymore. Why can’t it just work! I’m sick and tired of this,” Tears rolling down with her words being barely audible: “All the pressure on us and nobody is even aware of what we sacrifice”.

Molina starts walking swiftly towards Angela.

“No go away! “Molina jumps, quickly turning around and begins to walk slowly towards the computer. She pauses and looks back at the figure curled up on the floor and mutters softly. “I will win this for you Angie, I promise.” She turns around again; a tear rolls down her cheek as she turns to walk towards the computer.

Just then the DarkV_Rock in the jar leaks its energy and causes it to travel towards Molina.

The leonine will do quite nicely, come! accept my embrace.

Experiment 107 unsuccessful

“Well, at least you got ideas Angela, I would like to be as strong as you one day.”

“I don’ need pity shorty.” She lifts her buried head. “MOLINA!!!! WATCH OUT!”

Angela instantly jumps to her feet....

“AAAAAAHHH HEEELLP M”

BOOM!

The explosion knocks back Angela, with her back embedded on the wall. "Molina no,no,no,no" Tears begin to form again "Please let it not be what I think it is please no please." The dust clears, Angela immediately rushes to the body laying cold on the floor.

"cough*cough*Angela... help me I'm scared" Molina struggles to breath, her cough is devastating "What is happening to me *cough*it hurts everywhere." She slips in and out of consciousness.

"Don't worry I got you, it's nothing" She holds her tears with Molina in her arms breathing quickly "I promise nothing will happen to you please don't close your eyes."

She lifts Molina out of the room "Computer! I need help! Shorty stay with me please!" Angela bolts over to the bed summoned in the centre of the room while trying to hold back a lake of tears.

"An-ngiee I'm sor-rryy" Molina's chest is pulsing black and red.

"Molina you have to fight it, do it for me, you can't leave me!" Angela sets Molina on the bed summoned in the room outside of the experiment room. Angela grips onto Molina's little hand releasing her tears.

"Not like this, it's my fault, it should have been me!" Angela panics "Don't close your eyes please, you can't leave me." She tries to look for something in the box beside the bed and finds "An Adrenaline shot, I'm sorry but you need to stay with me."

Angela quickly jabs the syringe into Molinas's neck.

Molina coughs up a mouthful of blood, struggling to breath she looks at Angela and begins to cry.

"I'm far-gone Angela, don't Do not let my death weigh on you." Her coughs are getting more and more hoarse with more blood appearing each time. "Promise me Angela you will not....."

The beautiful blue eyes disappear.

"Molina? Molina? Noooo! you cannot leave me. Keep talking please no no no... You can't leave, we need to get you onto the scoreboard!" Angela's head falls upon Molinas's chest.

After some time of grief...

Angela lets go of Molina and takes a step away from the bed. "Molina, I promise you that I will end "The Storm" or I shall join you soon!"

Disclaimer

These events take place within my assignment 2 world. Even though I have not heavily eluded to it, I still recommend reading my assignment 2 for a full experience.

The only necessary background information you may need to have is about Dark V_Rock which is:

Dark V_Rock: Is the dangerous version of V_Rock that has converted because of three known causes:

- It has been exposed to the emotion of anger.
- It has been overworked.
- It had been exposed to other Dark V_Rock.

An obsidian rock that has red lightning cracking out of it. In this form the rock displays qualities of having free will and is the main cause of “The Storm”. The energy It produces Is really powerful.

When someone is exposed to it there is a high chance of getting infected by DP [Dark Philanthropy]. The individual will now gain mass energy allowing the individual to control powerful red energy, the power is safe to use if the individual does not become hateful and angry, the rock will try to kill and take over them. When they die, the individual's dead body will first become a chunk of Dark V_Rock after which it will spontaneously combust in a violent explosion flinging Dark V_Rock shrapnel everywhere.
